

Every Woman is an Unbeliever.

She can't believe, to begin with, that Pearlina can do so much. She hears that everybody is using it; finally she tries it. It does all she's heard of; it saves all that she's been told. She takes comfort in using it. But she can't believe that so much can be done safely. She consults those who have used it for years. She finds that Pearlina has been tested and proved in a hundred ways; that it's harmless to hands or fabric; that it's as safe as good soap. Then she can't believe that she ever did without it. She has less to do, she gets more done—and it's all done better. Her clothes last longer—they're not rubbed to pieces. Her housework is easy; her time is her own. She believes in Pearlina, and tells her friends about it—that's the most effective kind of advertising.

Pearlina is a household name. It is the most effective kind of advertising. It is the most effective kind of advertising. It is the most effective kind of advertising.

Beware of cheap imitations.

Agents from 12 to 18 years, cost from $8 to $12, will be sold for $5.00 each.

SPRING OUTER COATS

are playing the trade. We have a complete line of SPRING STYLE COATS.

Custom Department

as is well known, is second to none. We are doing more and better work than ever before. If in want of FINE CLOTHING, Business Suits, Dress Suits, Overcoats, Pantsuits, give us a call.

FRANK P. PILEN & CO.

Corner of State and Exchange Streets.

FOR SALE.

By CHAS. S. PERL, Auctioneer. DESIRABLE HOMESTEAD At Auction.

On WEDNESDAY, June 14, at 10 o'clock, a well situated, two-story house with stable, on a beautiful lot, containing about 10 acres, with a large quantity of hay, and a large quantity of wood, and a large quantity of other valuable property, will be sold at auction.

FARM FOR SALE.

The very desirable property known as the farm of William Rogers, situated on a beautiful lot, containing about 10 acres, with a large quantity of hay, and a large quantity of wood, and a large quantity of other valuable property, will be sold at auction.

FOR SALE.

The very desirable property known as the farm of William Rogers, situated on a beautiful lot, containing about 10 acres, with a large quantity of hay, and a large quantity of wood, and a large quantity of other valuable property, will be sold at auction.

Farm at Auction.

On THURSDAY, June 2, at 10 o'clock, a well situated, two-story house with stable, on a beautiful lot, containing about 10 acres, with a large quantity of hay, and a large quantity of wood, and a large quantity of other valuable property, will be sold at auction.

Steamboat For Sale.

The sound and serviceable steamer, the "City of Portland," built in 1885, and having sixty-one staterooms, now running between Portland and Bangor, on the route of the Portland and Bangor Steamship Company, is offered for sale, delivered at either Portland or Bangor, after July 1st, next. She may now be seen on her present route. For description and terms apply to LAYSON TUCKER, General Manager, Portland, Me., or to the Portland and Bangor Steamship Company, Portland, Me.

For Sale or Rent.

The very desirable 14 story frame dwelling house, No. 20 Grove Street. Contains 10 rooms, with all modern conveniences, and a large lot, with a large quantity of hay, and a large quantity of wood, and a large quantity of other valuable property, will be sold at auction.

HEATERS

Manufactured by RICHMOND STOVE CO. NORWICH, CONN. LEIGHTON, DAVE PORT & CO. BANGOR, ME.

THE KANSAS CYCLONE

Further Particulars of the Disaster at Wellington. Over One Hundred Persons Killed and Wounded.

THE PRESIDENTIAL ROOM.

Views of Prominent Republicans on the Situation. Report that Mr. Blaine will Write No More Letters.

NEW YORK, May 28. A Washington special quotes Mr. Miliken, of Maine, as having said, last evening, he had substantial reasons for thinking Mr. Blaine would accept the Republican nomination if it were offered him. "You can be certain of one thing," said Mr. Miliken, "Mr. Blaine will write no more letters. He has written the last letter he will ever write, so far as the Presidency is concerned. Of that I have no doubt. He will not raise his hand to prevent his friends taking any action they may deem advisable. There are many reasons why Blaine ought to be nominated. It is sufficient, however, to mention that two of them, the fact that the country is overwhelmingly in favor of him, and in saying this I mean the country as a whole, and not the few who are his personal friends, and that, than any other living American; second, we must nominate a man who can win, and we can win with Blaine."

THE MOST APPALLING SCENE

was that at the Phillips House where a ball was in progress when the cyclone burst. The dancers were given little opportunity to escape from the toppling structure. As the building began to sway the heavy roof was seen to be tilted. The floor was saturated with blood which covered the floor in places. The room was filled with the cries of the dying and the groans of the wounded. The scene was one of the most appalling that has ever been witnessed.

TEMPORARY RELIEF.

Not a wound could be dressed beyond the first aid given by the doctors. The cries and groans that went up from the building were terrible to hear. At an attempt to rescue the injured, the rescuers, surgeons, their assistants and messengers. This added to the agony. For in a short time the rescuers were crowded out of the streets were crowded with people searching for friends and relatives. Every one wanted to go into the hospital, but it was difficult to get in. The hospital was crowded with the injured and the dying. The scene was one of the most appalling that has ever been witnessed.

THE STORM CAME FROM THE SOUTHWEST

and approached the city with a rapidity that was almost incredible. The trees were torn from their roots, and houses were blown away. The scene was one of the most appalling that has ever been witnessed.

THE STORM CAME FROM THE SOUTHWEST

and approached the city with a rapidity that was almost incredible. The trees were torn from their roots, and houses were blown away. The scene was one of the most appalling that has ever been witnessed.

THE STORM CAME FROM THE SOUTHWEST

and approached the city with a rapidity that was almost incredible. The trees were torn from their roots, and houses were blown away. The scene was one of the most appalling that has ever been witnessed.

THE STORM CAME FROM THE SOUTHWEST

and approached the city with a rapidity that was almost incredible. The trees were torn from their roots, and houses were blown away. The scene was one of the most appalling that has ever been witnessed.

THE STORM CAME FROM THE SOUTHWEST

and approached the city with a rapidity that was almost incredible. The trees were torn from their roots, and houses were blown away. The scene was one of the most appalling that has ever been witnessed.

THE STORM CAME FROM THE SOUTHWEST

and approached the city with a rapidity that was almost incredible. The trees were torn from their roots, and houses were blown away. The scene was one of the most appalling that has ever been witnessed.

THE STORM CAME FROM THE SOUTHWEST

and approached the city with a rapidity that was almost incredible. The trees were torn from their roots, and houses were blown away. The scene was one of the most appalling that has ever been witnessed.

THE STORM CAME FROM THE SOUTHWEST

and approached the city with a rapidity that was almost incredible. The trees were torn from their roots, and houses were blown away. The scene was one of the most appalling that has ever been witnessed.

THE STORM CAME FROM THE SOUTHWEST

and approached the city with a rapidity that was almost incredible. The trees were torn from their roots, and houses were blown away. The scene was one of the most appalling that has ever been witnessed.

THE STORM CAME FROM THE SOUTHWEST

and approached the city with a rapidity that was almost incredible. The trees were torn from their roots, and houses were blown away. The scene was one of the most appalling that has ever been witnessed.

THE STORM CAME FROM THE SOUTHWEST

and approached the city with a rapidity that was almost incredible. The trees were torn from their roots, and houses were blown away. The scene was one of the most appalling that has ever been witnessed.

MAINE MELANGE.

Slight Prospect of Getting All Aroostook Logs Through.

THE KANSAS CYCLONE

Views of Prominent Republicans on the Situation. Report that Mr. Blaine will Write No More Letters.

NEW YORK, May 28. A Washington special quotes Mr. Miliken, of Maine, as having said, last evening, he had substantial reasons for thinking Mr. Blaine would accept the Republican nomination if it were offered him. "You can be certain of one thing," said Mr. Miliken, "Mr. Blaine will write no more letters. He has written the last letter he will ever write, so far as the Presidency is concerned. Of that I have no doubt. He will not raise his hand to prevent his friends taking any action they may deem advisable. There are many reasons why Blaine ought to be nominated. It is sufficient, however, to mention that two of them, the fact that the country is overwhelmingly in favor of him, and in saying this I mean the country as a whole, and not the few who are his personal friends, and that, than any other living American; second, we must nominate a man who can win, and we can win with Blaine."

THE MOST APPALLING SCENE

was that at the Phillips House where a ball was in progress when the cyclone burst. The dancers were given little opportunity to escape from the toppling structure. As the building began to sway the heavy roof was seen to be tilted. The floor was saturated with blood which covered the floor in places. The room was filled with the cries of the dying and the groans of the wounded. The scene was one of the most appalling that has ever been witnessed.

TEMPORARY RELIEF.

Not a wound could be dressed beyond the first aid given by the doctors. The cries and groans that went up from the building were terrible to hear. At an attempt to rescue the injured, the rescuers, surgeons, their assistants and messengers. This added to the agony. For in a short time the rescuers were crowded out of the streets were crowded with people searching for friends and relatives. Every one wanted to go into the hospital, but it was difficult to get in. The hospital was crowded with the injured and the dying. The scene was one of the most appalling that has ever been witnessed.

THE STORM CAME FROM THE SOUTHWEST

and approached the city with a rapidity that was almost incredible. The trees were torn from their roots, and houses were blown away. The scene was one of the most appalling that has ever been witnessed.

THE STORM CAME FROM THE SOUTHWEST

and approached the city with a rapidity that was almost incredible. The trees were torn from their roots, and houses were blown away. The scene was one of the most appalling that has ever been witnessed.

THE STORM CAME FROM THE SOUTHWEST

and approached the city with a rapidity that was almost incredible. The trees were torn from their roots, and houses were blown away. The scene was one of the most appalling that has ever been witnessed.

THE STORM CAME FROM THE SOUTHWEST

and approached the city with a rapidity that was almost incredible. The trees were torn from their roots, and houses were blown away. The scene was one of the most appalling that has ever been witnessed.

THE STORM CAME FROM THE SOUTHWEST

and approached the city with a rapidity that was almost incredible. The trees were torn from their roots, and houses were blown away. The scene was one of the most appalling that has ever been witnessed.

THE STORM CAME FROM THE SOUTHWEST

and approached the city with a rapidity that was almost incredible. The trees were torn from their roots, and houses were blown away. The scene was one of the most appalling that has ever been witnessed.

THE STORM CAME FROM THE SOUTHWEST

and approached the city with a rapidity that was almost incredible. The trees were torn from their roots, and houses were blown away. The scene was one of the most appalling that has ever been witnessed.

THE STORM CAME FROM THE SOUTHWEST

and approached the city with a rapidity that was almost incredible. The trees were torn from their roots, and houses were blown away. The scene was one of the most appalling that has ever been witnessed.

THE STORM CAME FROM THE SOUTHWEST

and approached the city with a rapidity that was almost incredible. The trees were torn from their roots, and houses were blown away. The scene was one of the most appalling that has ever been witnessed.

THE STORM CAME FROM THE SOUTHWEST

and approached the city with a rapidity that was almost incredible. The trees were torn from their roots, and houses were blown away. The scene was one of the most appalling that has ever been witnessed.

THE STORM CAME FROM THE SOUTHWEST

and approached the city with a rapidity that was almost incredible. The trees were torn from their roots, and houses were blown away. The scene was one of the most appalling that has ever been witnessed.

MAINE MELANGE.

Slight Prospect of Getting All Aroostook Logs Through.

THE KANSAS CYCLONE

Views of Prominent Republicans on the Situation. Report that Mr. Blaine will Write No More Letters.

NEW YORK, May 28. A Washington special quotes Mr. Miliken, of Maine, as having said, last evening, he had substantial reasons for thinking Mr. Blaine would accept the Republican nomination if it were offered him. "You can be certain of one thing," said Mr. Miliken, "Mr. Blaine will write no more letters. He has written the last letter he will ever write, so far as the Presidency is concerned. Of that I have no doubt. He will not raise his hand to prevent his friends taking any action they may deem advisable. There are many reasons why Blaine ought to be nominated. It is sufficient, however, to mention that two of them, the fact that the country is overwhelmingly in favor of him, and in saying this I mean the country as a whole, and not the few who are his personal friends, and that, than any other living American; second, we must nominate a man who can win, and we can win with Blaine."

THE MOST APPALLING SCENE

was that at the Phillips House where a ball was in progress when the cyclone burst. The dancers were given little opportunity to escape from the toppling structure. As the building began to sway the heavy roof was seen to be tilted. The floor was saturated with blood which covered the floor in places. The room was filled with the cries of the dying and the groans of the wounded. The scene was one of the most appalling that has ever been witnessed.

TEMPORARY RELIEF.

Not a wound could be dressed beyond the first aid given by the doctors. The cries and groans that went up from the building were terrible to hear. At an attempt to rescue the injured, the rescuers, surgeons, their assistants and messengers. This added to the agony. For in a short time the rescuers were crowded out of the streets were crowded with people searching for friends and relatives. Every one wanted to go into the hospital, but it was difficult to get in. The hospital was crowded with the injured and the dying. The scene was one of the most appalling that has ever been witnessed.

THE STORM CAME FROM THE SOUTHWEST

and approached the city with a rapidity that was almost incredible. The trees were torn from their roots, and houses were blown away. The scene was one of the most appalling that has ever been witnessed.

THE STORM CAME FROM THE SOUTHWEST

and approached the city with a rapidity that was almost incredible. The trees were torn from their roots, and houses were blown away. The scene was one of the most appalling that has ever been witnessed.

THE STORM CAME FROM THE SOUTHWEST

and approached the city with a rapidity that was almost incredible. The trees were torn from their roots, and houses were blown away. The scene was one of the most appalling that has ever been witnessed.

THE STORM CAME FROM THE SOUTHWEST

and approached the city with a rapidity that was almost incredible. The trees were torn from their roots, and houses were blown away. The scene was one of the most appalling that has ever been witnessed.

THE STORM CAME FROM THE SOUTHWEST

and approached the city with a rapidity that was almost incredible. The trees were torn from their roots, and houses were blown away. The scene was one of the most appalling that has ever been witnessed.

THE STORM CAME FROM THE SOUTHWEST

and approached the city with a rapidity that was almost incredible. The trees were torn from their roots, and houses were blown away. The scene was one of the most appalling that has ever been witnessed.

THE STORM CAME FROM THE SOUTHWEST

and approached the city with a rapidity that was almost incredible. The trees were torn from their roots, and houses were blown away. The scene was one of the most appalling that has ever been witnessed.

THE STORM CAME FROM THE SOUTHWEST

and approached the city with a rapidity that was almost incredible. The trees were torn from their roots, and houses were blown away. The scene was one of the most appalling that has ever been witnessed.

THE STORM CAME FROM THE SOUTHWEST

and approached the city with a rapidity that was almost incredible. The trees were torn from their roots, and houses were blown away. The scene was one of the most appalling that has ever been witnessed.

THE STORM CAME FROM THE SOUTHWEST

and approached the city with a rapidity that was almost incredible. The trees were torn from their roots, and houses were blown away. The scene was one of the most appalling that has ever been witnessed.

THE STORM CAME FROM THE SOUTHWEST

and approached the city with a rapidity that was almost incredible. The trees were torn from their roots, and houses were blown away. The scene was one of the most appalling that has ever been witnessed.

MAINE MELANGE.

Slight Prospect of Getting All Aroostook Logs Through.

THE KANSAS CYCLONE

Views of Prominent Republicans on the Situation. Report that Mr. Blaine will Write No More Letters.

NEW YORK, May 28. A Washington special quotes Mr. Miliken, of Maine, as having said, last evening, he had substantial reasons for thinking Mr. Blaine would accept the Republican nomination if it were offered him. "You can be certain of one thing," said Mr. Miliken, "Mr. Blaine will write no more letters. He has written the last letter he will ever write, so far as the Presidency is concerned. Of that I have no doubt. He will not raise his hand to prevent his friends taking any action they may deem advisable. There are many reasons why Blaine ought to be nominated. It is sufficient, however, to mention that two of them, the fact that the country is overwhelmingly in favor of him, and in saying this I mean the country as a whole, and not the few who are his personal friends, and that, than any other living American; second, we must nominate a man who can win, and we can win with Blaine."

THE MOST APPALLING SCENE

was that at the Phillips House where a ball was in progress when the cyclone burst. The dancers were given little opportunity to escape from the toppling structure. As the building began to sway the heavy roof was seen to be tilted. The floor was saturated with blood which covered the floor in places. The room was filled with the cries of the dying and the groans of the wounded. The scene was one of the most appalling that has ever been witnessed.

TEMPORARY RELIEF.

Not a wound could be dressed beyond the first aid given by the doctors. The cries and groans that went up from the building were terrible to hear. At an attempt to rescue the injured, the rescuers, surgeons, their assistants and messengers. This added to the agony. For in a short time the rescuers were crowded out of the streets were crowded with people searching for friends and relatives. Every one wanted to go into the hospital, but it was difficult to get in. The hospital was crowded with the injured and the dying. The scene was one of the most appalling that has ever been witnessed.

THE STORM CAME FROM THE SOUTHWEST

and approached the city with a rapidity that was almost incredible. The trees were torn from their roots, and houses were blown away. The scene was one of the most appalling that has ever been witnessed.

THE STORM CAME FROM THE SOUTHWEST

and approached the city with a rapidity that was almost incredible. The trees were torn from their roots, and houses were blown away. The scene was one of the most appalling that has ever been witnessed.

THE STORM CAME FROM THE SOUTHWEST

and approached the city with a rapidity that was almost incredible. The trees were torn from their roots, and houses were blown away. The scene was one of the most appalling that has ever been witnessed.

THE STORM CAME FROM THE SOUTHWEST

and approached the city with a rapidity that was almost incredible. The trees were torn from their roots, and houses were blown away. The scene was one of the most appalling that has ever been witnessed.

THE STORM CAME FROM THE SOUTHWEST

and approached the city with a rapidity that was almost incredible. The trees were torn from their roots, and houses were blown away. The scene was one of the most appalling that has ever been witnessed.

THE STORM CAME FROM THE SOUTHWEST

and approached the city with a rapidity that was almost incredible. The trees were torn from their roots, and houses were blown away. The scene was one of the most appalling that has ever been witnessed.

THE STORM CAME FROM THE SOUTHWEST

and approached the city with a rapidity that was almost incredible. The trees were torn from their roots, and houses were blown away. The scene was one of the most appalling that has ever been witnessed.

THE STORM CAME FROM THE SOUTHWEST

and approached the city with a rapidity that was almost incredible. The trees were torn from their roots, and houses were blown away. The scene was one of the most appalling that has ever been witnessed.

THE STORM CAME FROM THE SOUTHWEST

and approached the city with a rapidity that was almost incredible. The trees were torn from their roots, and houses were blown away. The scene was one of the most appalling that has ever been witnessed.

THE STORM CAME FROM THE SOUTHWEST

and approached the city with a rapidity that was almost incredible. The trees were torn from their roots, and houses were blown away. The scene was one of the most appalling that has ever been witnessed.

THE STORM CAME FROM THE SOUTHWEST

and approached the city with a rapidity that was almost incredible. The trees were torn from their roots, and houses were blown away. The scene was one of the most appalling that has ever been witnessed.

King and Courier.

BY BOUTELLE BROTHERS.

All business letters should be addressed to Boutelle Brothers, and communications intended for publication should be addressed to "Editor of King and Courier."

MONDAY, MAY 30, 1892.

REPUBLICAN NOMINATIONS.

FOR PRESIDENTIAL ELECTORS.
For Electors at Large:
THOMAS W. HYDE, of Bath.
WILLIAM M. NASH, of Cherryfield.
First District—SIDNEY PERHAM.
Second District—A. WILSON.
Third District—ROBERT C. PENNEY.
FOR CONGRESSMEN:
First District—NELSON DINGLEY, Jr.
Second District—CHARLES A. BOUTELLE.

REPUBLICAN County Convention.

The Republican voters of the County of Penobscot are notified to meet at the County Convention at

TOWN HALL, DEXTER,

ON

THE 29TH DAY OF JUNE NEXT,

AT 10 O'CLOCK A.M.

to nominate three candidates for Senators, a candidate for Sheriff, for County Attorney, for Judge of Probate, for Treasurer, for one County Commissioner, to be supported at the September election.

BASIS OF REPRESENTATION.
Each city, town and plantation one delegate. For every 500 voters one additional delegate, and for every fraction amounting to 250 or over, in excess of the last 50, another delegate. Each town and plantation entitled to vote as a town and less than 50, two delegates.

By vote of a former County Convention, delegates must be residents of the towns they represent.

Bound tickets for one year will be sold by the M. & R. and the P. & R. companies to delegates.

The County Convention will be held in the Town Hall, at 10 A.M. on the 29th of June, to receive credentials.

In order of the Republican County Committee, J. L. LEBLANC, Chairman.

JAMES W. DODGSON, Secretary.

A REPUBLICAN STATE CONVENTION.

—WILL BE HELD IN—

CITY HALL, PORT A.D.

TUESDAY, JUNE 21, 1892,

AT ELEVEN O'CLOCK A.M.

for the purpose of nominating a candidate for Governor, and for electing delegates to the National Convention, to be held at St. Louis, Mo., on the 12th of July, 1892.

The State of Maine will be entitled to one delegate, and for every fraction amounting to 250 or over, in excess of the last 50, another delegate. Each town and plantation entitled to vote as a town and less than 50, two delegates.

By vote of a former State Convention, delegates must be residents of the towns they represent.

Bound tickets for one year will be sold by the M. & R. and the P. & R. companies to delegates.

The State Convention will be held in the City Hall, at 11 A.M. on the 21st of June, to receive credentials.

In order of the Republican State Committee, J. L. LEBLANC, Chairman.

JAMES W. DODGSON, Secretary.

Where Mr. Boutelle Stands

THE BLAINE FEELING AGAIN.

The Blaine feeling is rising again to a wonderful pitch. Many of the people will be nominated in spite of his letter, unless he should appear personally to declare that under no circumstances would he accept the nomination.

The members from Maine do not all agree with Congressman Boutelle in the opinion that Mr. Blaine will be a candidate, and will accept of the nomination.

All who speak to him, save very frankly that Mr. Blaine has not changed his position and that he stands by his letter of declaration.

Another member of the delegation from Maine, who is near to Mr. Blaine as any one, says very emphatically, although he does not desire to be quoted, that there is nothing new in the present agitation, that Mr. Blaine will not accept of the nomination.

"Mr. Blaine," said this gentleman, "does not think there is enough in the present agitation to warrant him in saying, doing or writing anything. In addition to his letter of February 2nd, if he uses his name shall continue, you can rely upon it that he will not accept of the nomination of the convention, and in due time, some positive statement will come from Mr. Blaine which will not do doubt a candidate will not accept of the nomination." Washington Special to Boston Herald.

The frequent appearance of paragraphs similar to the above in the news columns of papers in Maine and elsewhere, induces me to state in the most unmistakable manner that "Congressman Boutelle" accepts full responsibility for the expression of his opinion, and that Mr. Blaine may be nominated and elected President of the United States, and that whatever influence he may have is and will be very frankly exerted in the effort to persuade Mr. Blaine to interpose no further obstacle to the realization of the dearest wish of millions of his countrymen.

In this respect I stand exactly as I have stood from 1876, firm in the belief that the illustrious career of JAMES G. BLAINE should be crowned by his elevation to the highest position in the gift of the people; and in seeking to furnish my slight aid toward that result I have been under no delusion, unwavering by the course of time, and rather stimulated thereby by the magnificent disposition of the great leader to award the prize to others.

I have never pretended and do not now assume to speak for Mr. Blaine, and I do not believe that he has authorized Senator Hale or my colleague Mr. Dingley, or any other person, to make any statement in his position. For one I have not desired that he should make any statement in addition to his letter to Mr. Clarkson, which simply announced that he would not seek the nomination. He will not seek it, and I know he does not care for it, but the great heart of the Republican party will never be satisfied until he has been made President, and the voice of the Republican people is even now clamoring for his leadership from California to Maine. If any man is offended because I made my voice to swell that great acclaim, I shall have to endure his displeasure; but I have no fear of encountering any appreciable amount of such feeling in Maine or elsewhere.

In such a matter it is not so important to know whether all the "other members" of the delegation agree with me, as to have the conviction that I am right; and on that point I am well satisfied with my position as I was in 1876 and 1888, when Senator Hale and others were as constantly and approvingly quoted by those who were believed to prevent the nomination of Mr. Blaine. On both occasions I decried his nomination, and believe the failure in 1888 was a large measure due to influence which he exerted in the right direction which had aided in preventing Mr. Blaine's withdrawal.

I do not pretend to any confidential knowledge as to what Mr. Blaine will do in contingencies that may arise, but I know that I sincerely wish that he may permit the representative of the party to have this opportunity.

letter, and that his family do not believe that the Presidential nomination would be likely to result in injury to his health. Therefore, I feel at liberty to do and say all that I properly can, to prevent the disappointment of a whole people, by the efforts of interested parties to set up the doctrine that because a great man has generally declined to seek for or enter into personal competition with any of his fellows for the office of Chief Magistrate of the Nation, the people shall be prohibited from calling him into their service, although their desire may find practically unanimous expression from one boundary of the Republic to the other.

I believe that the Republicans of the country have a perfect right to choose Mr. Blaine for their standard bearer, and that he has a perfect right to accept the party standard from their sovereign and unfettered hands. I recognize that the issue rests with himself, and while claiming no privilege but that of admiration and life long friendship, and realizing no motive but devotion to the highest interests of my country as identified with those of the party, until the matter is finally decided, I shall continue to be one of those who are striving to make it easier, rather than of those who are trying to make it more difficult, for Mr. Blaine to yield to the magnificent summons that is coming to him in the spontaneous voice of the Republican party.

C. A. BOUTELLE.

The Laurel and the Cypress.

Today we are in another anniversary of the time set apart and dedicated as sacred to the memory of our departed heroes who laid down their lives in defense of their country and ours, and upon which the graves of the brave defenders and preachers of the Nation are decked with flowers emblematic of life and hope. As if in harmony with the oceanic Nature has eluded our trees and shrubs, as well as the plants and vines of field and forest, with a wealth of blossoms to be added to that furnished by our gardens and hot houses, which withal to our delectations rich, rare and profuse.

It is well that this annual observance should be kept up and perpetuated, and that the exercises of the day shall be of such a character as to impress the lessons taught by it deeply upon the young and rising generation whose only knowledge of the stirring events, at the time when our country stood upon the brink of disruption and was only saved from it by the heroism and bravery of the noble men and women of the North, derived from the stories told them by their fathers and mothers and the written history of our land. May they grow up to respect and venerate the day and when we to-day take part in the grand ceremonies have passed away; that they shall take up the work and hand it down to their children.

It is a day of reflecting for our country, and for our heroes departed, and the laurel of victory should be entwined with the cypress of mourning and the bright flowers of hope.

If the day bears out the promise at this writing, it will be bright and beautiful, and a fitting keeping with the sacred day and the fitting observance of it.

Let all unite in its fitting observance, and let the laurel be hailed to its utmost capacity to night to listen to the eloquent words which will deliver the memorial address.

A Distinguished Protectionist.

In view of the steadily growing strength of the Republican idea in the colleges and universities of the country, it is not strange that the new President of Cornell, Professor Jacob Gould Schurman, should be a pronounced Republican and protectionist.

In a public address a year ago at Ithaca he said:

"I am a Republican by conviction. Many of you are Republicans by birth and conviction combined. I have come to a Republican solely through conviction, not having always been such. I have watched the course of events and the procedure of the parties in this country somewhat closely for five years, and I may say that, though never a member of the Democratic party, I yet find at one time, and for a considerable period, a predilection for that party because of its free trade tendencies, but I became thoroughly disappointed with President Cleveland's disingenuous course in the matter of civil service reform and with the attitude of that party on that subject ever since, and although, as I said before, I was inclined when I first came to this country to favor free trade, I became convinced, after a long and impartial study of the subject, that however it may be in England, practically, it is not so in this country, and that whatever might be true in that country generally, for all great countries, for an entire continent, the protective principle is the proper one to follow."

"Thus it was that I began to lean toward the Republican party, and when the Democrats of Ohio came to a platform for free trade and free silver I went over body and soul to the Republican ranks. I say 'I went over.' I do not mean by that that I went over from Democracy, for I never was a Democrat, but that I then and there became a true blue, thoroughgoing Republican."

This is gratifying, for it marks the unmistakable tendency among the two best minds and culture of today. In May be remarked that Professor Schurman has been a student of protectionism, and that social science under world-famous masters at the great universities of Edinburgh, Heidelberg, Berlin and elsewhere, and that for the United States "the protective principle is the proper one to follow."

Scholarship like the modern statesman's scholarship the fallacies of free trade.

Belligerent Cabinet Officers.

(From the Washington Post.)

MR. BOUTELLE CRITICIZES THE REMARKS OF SECRETARIES ELKINS AND FOSTER.

Representative Boutelle, when asked yesterday his opinion of the belligerent attitudes attributed to Secretaries Elkins and Foster, laughingly remarked that he did not care to say the least, picturesque and peculiar in phrasing, the chief officers of a Federal administration in the attitude of openly declaring war upon its own party, with the avowed purpose of perpetuating itself in official power. It is difficult to perceive how any other construction could possibly be placed upon the threat attributed to Secretary Elkins in an evening paper that the supporters of the nomination of any other candidate except by the small majority that "the friends of the President are in the right."

On the strange expressions ascribed to the Secretary of the Treasury in the World, to the effect that he will be a body of men in the National Convention, "who will be the President's interests are well protected," and the more remarkable declaration, "So you see that Blaine man, if Foster were to use the Secretary's name, have a hot fight before him."

These sort of language, said Mr. Boutelle, "is entirely out of place in a great party which has prided itself on its moderation, and the right of speech and independence in the choice of its leaders. The belligerent attitude, however, has been interpreted in the observations of the Secretary of the Treasury, for such a menacing language, with its threat of a hot fight, is not to be expected from a man who has been a student of protectionism, and that social science under world-famous masters at the great universities of Edinburgh, Heidelberg, Berlin and elsewhere, and that for the United States "the protective principle is the proper one to follow."

Scholarship like the modern statesman's scholarship the fallacies of free trade.

Belligerent Cabinet Officers.

(From the Washington Post.)

MR. BOUTELLE CRITICIZES THE REMARKS OF SECRETARIES ELKINS AND FOSTER.

Representative Boutelle, when asked yesterday his opinion of the belligerent attitudes attributed to Secretaries Elkins and Foster, laughingly remarked that he did not care to say the least, picturesque and peculiar in phrasing, the chief officers of a Federal administration in the attitude of openly declaring war upon its own party, with the avowed purpose of perpetuating itself in official power. It is difficult to perceive how any other construction could possibly be placed upon the threat attributed to Secretary Elkins in an evening paper that the supporters of the nomination of any other candidate except by the small majority that "the friends of the President are in the right."

On the strange expressions ascribed to the Secretary of the Treasury in the World, to the effect that he will be a body of men in the National Convention, "who will be the President's interests are well protected," and the more remarkable declaration, "So you see that Blaine man, if Foster were to use the Secretary's name, have a hot fight before him."

These sort of language, said Mr. Boutelle, "is entirely out of place in a great party which has prided itself on its moderation, and the right of speech and independence in the choice of its leaders. The belligerent attitude, however, has been interpreted in the observations of the Secretary of the Treasury, for such a menacing language, with its threat of a hot fight, is not to be expected from a man who has been a student of protectionism, and that social science under world-famous masters at the great universities of Edinburgh, Heidelberg, Berlin and elsewhere, and that for the United States "the protective principle is the proper one to follow."

Scholarship like the modern statesman's scholarship the fallacies of free trade.

Belligerent Cabinet Officers.

(From the Washington Post.)

MR. BOUTELLE CRITICIZES THE REMARKS OF SECRETARIES ELKINS AND FOSTER.

Representative Boutelle, when asked yesterday his opinion of the belligerent attitudes attributed to Secretaries Elkins and Foster, laughingly remarked that he did not care to say the least, picturesque and peculiar in phrasing, the chief officers of a Federal administration in the attitude of openly declaring war upon its own party, with the avowed purpose of perpetuating itself in official power. It is difficult to perceive how any other construction could possibly be placed upon the threat attributed to Secretary Elkins in an evening paper that the supporters of the nomination of any other candidate except by the small majority that "the friends of the President are in the right."

On the strange expressions ascribed to the Secretary of the Treasury in the World, to the effect that he will be a body of men in the National Convention, "who will be the President's interests are well protected," and the more remarkable declaration, "So you see that Blaine man, if Foster were to use the Secretary's name, have a hot fight before him."

These sort of language, said Mr. Boutelle, "is entirely out of place in a great party which has prided itself on its moderation, and the right of speech and independence in the choice of its leaders. The belligerent attitude, however, has been interpreted in the observations of the Secretary of the Treasury, for such a menacing language, with its threat of a hot fight, is not to be expected from a man who has been a student of protectionism, and that social science under world-famous masters at the great universities of Edinburgh, Heidelberg, Berlin and elsewhere, and that for the United States "the protective principle is the proper one to follow."

Scholarship like the modern statesman's scholarship the fallacies of free trade.

Belligerent Cabinet Officers.

(From the Washington Post.)

MR. BOUTELLE CRITICIZES THE REMARKS OF SECRETARIES ELKINS AND FOSTER.

Representative Boutelle, when asked yesterday his opinion of the belligerent attitudes attributed to Secretaries Elkins and Foster, laughingly remarked that he did not care to say the least, picturesque and peculiar in phrasing, the chief officers of a Federal administration in the attitude of openly declaring war upon its own party, with the avowed purpose of perpetuating itself in official power. It is difficult to perceive how any other construction could possibly be placed upon the threat attributed to Secretary Elkins in an evening paper that the supporters of the nomination of any other candidate except by the small majority that "the friends of the President are in the right."

On the strange expressions ascribed to the Secretary of the Treasury in the World, to the effect that he will be a body of men in the National Convention, "who will be the President's interests are well protected," and the more remarkable declaration, "So you see that Blaine man, if Foster were to use the Secretary's name, have a hot fight before him."

These sort of language, said Mr. Boutelle, "is entirely out of place in a great party which has prided itself on its moderation, and the right of speech and independence in the choice of its leaders. The belligerent attitude, however, has been interpreted in the observations of the Secretary of the Treasury, for such a menacing language, with its threat of a hot fight, is not to be expected from a man who has been a student of protectionism, and that social science under world-famous masters at the great universities of Edinburgh, Heidelberg, Berlin and elsewhere, and that for the United States "the protective principle is the proper one to follow."

Scholarship like the modern statesman's scholarship the fallacies of free trade.

Belligerent Cabinet Officers.

(From the Washington Post.)

MR. BOUTELLE CRITICIZES THE REMARKS OF SECRETARIES ELKINS AND FOSTER.

Representative Boutelle, when asked yesterday his opinion of the belligerent attitudes attributed to Secretaries Elkins and Foster, laughingly remarked that he did not care to say the least, picturesque and peculiar in phrasing, the chief officers of a Federal administration in the attitude of openly declaring war upon its own party, with the avowed purpose of perpetuating itself in official power. It is difficult to perceive how any other construction could possibly be placed upon the threat attributed to Secretary Elkins in an evening paper that the supporters of the nomination of any other candidate except by the small majority that "the friends of the President are in the right."

On the strange expressions ascribed to the Secretary of the Treasury in the World, to the effect that he will be a body of men in the National Convention, "who will be the President's interests are well protected," and the more remarkable declaration, "So you see that Blaine man, if Foster were to use the Secretary's name, have a hot fight before him."

These sort of language, said Mr. Boutelle, "is entirely out of place in a great party which has prided itself on its moderation, and the right of speech and independence in the choice of its leaders. The belligerent attitude, however, has been interpreted in the observations of the Secretary of the Treasury, for such a menacing language, with its threat of a hot fight, is not to be expected from a man who has been a student of protectionism, and that social science under world-famous masters at the great universities of Edinburgh, Heidelberg, Berlin and elsewhere, and that for the United States "the protective principle is the proper one to follow."

Scholarship like the modern statesman's scholarship the fallacies of free trade.

Belligerent Cabinet Officers.

(From the Washington Post.)

MR. BOUTELLE CRITICIZES THE REMARKS OF SECRETARIES ELKINS AND FOSTER.

Representative Boutelle, when asked yesterday his opinion of the belligerent attitudes attributed to Secretaries Elkins and Foster, laughingly remarked that he did not care to say the least, picturesque and peculiar in phrasing, the chief officers of a Federal administration in the attitude of openly declaring war upon its own party, with the avowed purpose of perpetuating itself in official power. It is difficult to perceive how any other construction could possibly be placed upon the threat attributed to Secretary Elkins in an evening paper that the supporters of the nomination of any other candidate except by the small majority that "the friends of the President are in the right."

On the strange expressions ascribed to the Secretary of the Treasury in the World, to the effect that he will be a body of men in the National Convention, "who will be the President's interests are well protected," and the more remarkable declaration, "So you see that Blaine man, if Foster were to use the Secretary's name, have a hot fight before him."

These sort of language, said Mr. Boutelle, "is entirely out of place in a great party which has prided itself on its moderation, and the right of speech and independence in the choice of its leaders. The belligerent attitude, however, has been interpreted in the observations of the Secretary of the Treasury, for such a menacing language, with its threat of a hot fight, is not to be expected from a man who has been a student of protectionism, and that social science under world-famous masters at the great universities of Edinburgh, Heidelberg, Berlin and elsewhere, and that for the United States "the protective principle is the proper one to follow."

Scholarship like the modern statesman's scholarship the fallacies of free trade.

Belligerent Cabinet Officers.

(From the Washington Post.)

MR. BOUTELLE CRITICIZES THE REMARKS OF SECRETARIES ELKINS AND FOSTER.

Representative Boutelle, when asked yesterday his opinion of the belligerent attitudes attributed to Secretaries Elkins and Foster, laughingly remarked that he did not care to say the least, picturesque and peculiar in phrasing, the chief officers of a Federal administration in the attitude of openly declaring war upon its own party, with the avowed purpose of perpetuating itself in official power. It is difficult to perceive how any other construction could possibly be placed upon the threat attributed to Secretary Elkins in an evening paper that the supporters of the nomination of any other candidate except by the small majority that "the friends of the President are in the right."

On the strange expressions ascribed to the Secretary of the Treasury in the World, to the effect that he will be a body of men in the National Convention, "who will be the President's interests are well protected," and the more remarkable declaration, "So you see that Blaine man, if Foster were to use the Secretary's name, have a hot fight before him."

These sort of language, said Mr. Boutelle, "is entirely out of place in a great party which has prided itself on its moderation, and the right of speech and independence in the choice of its leaders. The belligerent attitude, however, has been interpreted in the observations of the Secretary of the Treasury, for such a menacing language, with its threat of a hot fight, is not to be expected from a man who has been a student of protectionism, and that social science under world-famous masters at the great universities of Edinburgh, Heidelberg, Berlin and elsewhere, and that for the United States "the protective principle is the proper one to follow."

Scholarship like the modern statesman's scholarship the fallacies of free trade.

Belligerent Cabinet Officers.

(From the Washington Post.)

MR. BOUTELLE CRITICIZES THE REMARKS OF SECRETARIES ELKINS AND FOSTER.

Representative Boutelle, when asked yesterday his opinion of the belligerent attitudes attributed to Secretaries Elkins and Foster, laughingly remarked that he did not care to say the least, picturesque and peculiar in phrasing, the chief officers of a Federal administration in the attitude of openly declaring war upon its own party, with the avowed purpose of perpetuating itself in official power. It is difficult to perceive how any other construction could possibly be placed upon the threat attributed to Secretary Elkins in an evening paper that the supporters of the nomination of any other candidate except by the small majority that "the friends of the President are in the right."

On the strange expressions ascribed to the Secretary of the Treasury in the World, to the effect that he will be a body of men in the National Convention, "who will be the President's interests are well protected," and the more remarkable declaration, "So you see that Blaine man, if Foster were to use the Secretary's name, have a hot fight before him."

These sort of language, said Mr. Boutelle, "is entirely out of place in a great party which has prided itself on its moderation, and the right of speech and independence in the choice of its leaders. The belligerent attitude, however, has been interpreted in the observations of the Secretary of the Treasury, for such a menacing language, with its threat of a hot fight, is not to be expected from a man who has been a student of protectionism, and that social science under world-famous masters at the great universities of Edinburgh, Heidelberg, Berlin and elsewhere, and that for the United States "the protective principle is the proper one to follow."

Scholarship like the modern statesman's scholarship the fallacies of free trade.

Belligerent Cabinet Officers.

(From the Washington Post.)

MR. BOUTELLE CRITICIZES THE REMARKS OF SECRETARIES ELKINS AND FOSTER.

Representative Boutelle, when asked yesterday his opinion of the belligerent attitudes attributed to Secretaries Elkins and Foster, laughingly remarked that he did not care to say the least, picturesque and peculiar in phrasing, the chief officers of a Federal administration in the attitude of openly declaring war upon its own party, with the avowed purpose of perpetuating itself in official power. It is difficult to perceive how any other construction could possibly be placed upon the threat attributed to Secretary Elkins in an evening paper that the supporters of the nomination of any other candidate except by the small majority that "the friends of the President are in the right."

On the strange expressions ascribed to the Secretary of the Treasury in the World, to the effect that he will be a body of men in the National Convention, "who will be the President's interests are well protected," and the more remarkable declaration, "So you see that Blaine man, if Foster were to use the Secretary's name, have a hot fight before him."

These sort of language, said Mr. Boutelle, "is entirely out of place in a great party which has prided itself on its moderation, and the right of speech and independence in the choice of its leaders. The belligerent attitude, however, has been interpreted in the observations of the Secretary of the Treasury, for such a menacing language, with its threat of a hot fight, is not to be expected from a man who has been a student of protectionism, and that social science under world-famous masters at the great universities of Edinburgh, Heidelberg, Berlin and elsewhere, and that for the United States "the protective principle is the proper one to follow."

Scholarship like the modern statesman's scholarship the fallacies of free trade.

Belligerent Cabinet Officers.

(From the Washington Post.)

MR. BOUTELLE CRITICIZES THE REMARKS OF SECRETARIES ELKINS AND FOSTER.

Representative Boutelle, when asked yesterday his opinion of the belligerent attitudes attributed to Secretaries Elkins and Foster, laughingly remarked that he did not care to say the least, picturesque and peculiar in phrasing, the chief officers of a Federal administration in the attitude of openly declaring war upon its own party, with the avowed purpose of perpetuating itself in official power. It is difficult to perceive how any other construction could possibly be placed upon the threat attributed to Secretary Elkins in an evening paper that the supporters of the nomination of any other candidate except by the small majority that "the friends of the President are in the right."

On the strange expressions ascribed to the Secretary of the Treasury in the World, to the effect that he will be a body of men in the National Convention, "who will be the President's interests are well protected," and the more remarkable declaration, "So you see that Blaine man, if Foster were to use the Secretary's name, have a hot fight before him."

These sort of language, said Mr. Boutelle, "is entirely out of place in a great party which has prided itself on its moderation, and the right of speech and independence in the choice of its leaders. The belligerent attitude, however, has been interpreted in the observations of the Secretary of the Treasury, for such a menacing language, with its threat of a hot fight, is not to be expected from a man who has been a student of protectionism, and that social science under world-famous masters at the great universities of Edinburgh, Heidelberg, Berlin and elsewhere, and that for the United States "the protective principle is the proper one to follow."

Scholarship like the modern statesman's scholarship the fallacies of free trade.

Belligerent Cabinet Officers.

(From the Washington Post.)

MR. BOUTELLE CRITICIZES THE REMARKS OF SECRETARIES ELKINS AND FOSTER.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

BLAINE'S Candy Store, New Restaurant and Ice Cream Parlor.

If you want a lunch, breakfast, dinner or supper, call on BLAINE'S. Meals by the day, week, month or year. Orders delivered. Domestic cooking. Telephone connection.

may 29

"JUNE 1892"

SIX PER CENT.

CORPORATION BONDS

At Par and Interest.

Paid Up Cash Capital, $600,000

Surplus and Profits, 100,000

We have handled these securities for five years past and never a moment's delay in payment of interest or principal. Business established in 1875.

may 29

City of Bangor Six Per Cent. Bonds.

may 29

Blake, Barrows & Brown,

10 CENTRAL STREET, BANGOR.

may 29

CITY OF BANGOR.

IN CITY COUNCIL.

MAY 18th, 1892.

Ordered—That the Street Engineer be and they are hereby authorized to lay out and establish a grade for

CHARLES STREET and report to the City Council.

VICTOR BIKETT, City Clerk.

Notice is hereby given that in pursuance of an order of the City Council passed May 18th, 1892, the Street Engineer will meet on TUESDAY, May 23rd, at 10 A.M., at the City Hall, to receive and consider the report of the Union and National Street Railways, and will proceed to lay out and establish the grade for

CHARLES STREET and report to the City Council.

Notice is hereby given to all persons interested in the proposed street grade, that they may appear at the meeting, if they see cause, and there to be heard on the subject.

JOSEPH W. TANEY, Street Engineer.

FRANK S. FARRAR, City Clerk.

may 29

DESIRABLE RESIDENCE

IN BROADWAY,

The Maine members of the L. A. W. will have their annual meet here to-day and quite a large number of wheelmen arrived in the city Saturday and yesterday. Among the number are the following, the most of whom are at the Bangor House, while a few are at the Bangor Exchange: L. E. Cobb, Rockland; C. W. Gentner, H. Hussy, S. C. Bennett, Guilford; P. Kilborn, B. H. Farnsworth, Portland; G. Swift, George T. Read, S. M. E.

nd: W. H. Littlefield, W. W. Bonney, nbank; H. H. Hancock, F. W.
nch, Saco; Dr. F. H. Moore, Calais;
G. E. Dow, D. S. C. Gibson, Port-
nd; B. S. Gallert, Waterville; John C. evens, Arthur P. Howard, Portland;
alter S. Noyes, J. Edward Etchells, A.
Sherborn, W. H. Bryant, W. C. Peavey, L. Batchelder, Fred W. Savage, W. B.
Cutler, G. B. Cutler, Bradford; Charles Dyer, C. M. P. Steele, James E. Mer-
J. Hall Bond, Northport; J. C. Lam-

Intyre, J. G. Lawrence, G. H. Lawrence, Saco; W. F. Bardsby, Bradford; F. Putnam, J. E. P. Harlow, Williamams, Fred Russ, Fred Perry, Lewiston and Auburn; A. Wentworth, E. T. Patton, Skowhegan; H. V. Fee, Bradford; G. Bass, H. W. Reed, Auburn; A. L. Cummings, Bradford; James Hayes, H. Frazier, Portland; B. A. Seaman, W. Jordan, Fort Fairfield.

The next will be a run to Pushaw Lake where a lunch will be served. At 5.30 p. the banquet will occur at the Windsor, it will be followed by a league meeting. Those who wish will attend the performance by Vreeland's minstrels at the "Impending Paganism."

President Hyde, of Bowdoin College, taken up the subject of the neglect of churches in the rural districts of New England. The picture that he gives in essay on this subject, which is printed in the June number of The Forum, is interesting. President Hyde calls his article "Impending Paganism in New England." He quotes statistics and the state-one county in Maine, for example, there are 6,967 families. It states that 4,850 attend no church; in another county where there are 7,288 families, 5,77 attend no church; in 15 counties which contain 133,455 families, 67,842 attend no church. President Hyde main-the cause of this decline he finds chief-ly in the fact that each sect regards the other with so much jealousy that the work of the churches has ceased to be the Robbed in Boston.

Mr. F. H. C. Reynolds, of this city, had an unpleasant experience with foot pads in Boston Thursday night. After attending the theatre he strolled into the Com-approached by a man, who after making some general remarks, asked Mr. Reynolds for half a dollar. Mr. Reynolds started to walk away when the foot pad seized him and shoved him into the arms of several other foot pads, who held him and went through his pockets. They seized his watch, money and card case and hurriedly left the spot. Mr. Reynolds waited at once to police station No. 4 and reported the robbery. The police and Assignment of Judges.

The following assignment of judges of the Supreme Court nisi prius terms for 1923 has just been made:
Peters, C. J., Sept. term, Aroostook;
O'By, Penobscot; Fehmy, Penobscot;
Ell, Lincoln.
Judge Walton, Sept. term, York, Oct.,
Maberland; Dec., Somerset; Jan'y,

udge Virgin. Sept. term. Piscoquis;
... Waldo: Jan'y. York: March. Knox:
... Cumberland.
udge Libbey, Sept. term. Knox, Oct.
... nobscot: Decr. Sagadahoc: Jan'y.
... Waldo: March. Kennebec: April. An-
... scoggia.
udge Emery, August term, Penobscot:
... Washington: Oct., Lincoln: Decr.,
... Somerset: Jan'y. Hancock: Feb'y.

udge Foster, Sept. term, Androsco-Oct., Hancock; Dec., Knox; Feb'y.
 ford; April, Sagadahoc.
 udge Haskell, Aug. term, Sagadahoc;
 t., Somerset; Oct., Oxford; Jan'y, oberland; March, Franklin; April, shington.
 udge Whitehouse, Sept. term, Frank-Oct., Keenebec; Jan'y, Washington;
 , Piscataquis; March, Somerset;
 ril, Waldo; May, York.

ent. Sec

arged the same price ely pure Royal, which he most highly refined
The lower cost of the eap, impure materials

the price of the Royal powder, made from impure, less strength? - If yes, insist upon having pure in price.

FINE PASTURE
first-class pasture for sale about 1/2 mi. or more. Well watered. Free fire for the season or 25 seasons more.
Apply to
G. E. SMITH &
Fourth Avenue, New York

[illegible]

Figure 1. The effect of the concentration of the Agrobacterium suspension on the transformation efficiency of Agrobacterium strains. The concentration of the Agrobacterium suspension was 10⁶ cells/ml (○), 10⁷ cells/ml (□), 10⁸ cells/ml (△), and 10⁹ cells/ml (◇). The error bars represent the standard deviation of three independent experiments.

[illegible]

is R.R.

S. CO.

about Co
ument.
ek,
y & MIRIA

The steamer
Oceania arrived at Hartford
Friday night and will leave Saturday morning.
F.R. FAY

Wm. L. Fay,
Owner,
No. 70, N. Main
St., Hartford, Conn.

Deer Isle.
LINE,
Y.
Is per Week
N.Y. & N.H.

Alwood.

WITH ELECTRO-MAGNETIC SUSPENSION.

in working from as of addition ment facility, ship and ladder construction. It is elements over all led to the worst of the shore clow
by this suspension and we give handle.

TEMPERATURE IN THE WYTHALL BATH.
TENDRY IN 80 to 90
degrees, washed. One

RIC CO
WORK.

with Mrs. J. A.
O. 58 MAIN ST.
petent force of new cutting and